NEW ORLEANS

Anyone involved in the CIA's manual encouraging Nicaraguan guerrillas to carry out acts of violence should be fired, the chairman of President Reagan's Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board says.

"I think any head should roll that had anything to do with that," New Orleans native Anne Armstrong said.

She called the booklet, which encouraged terrorism against the Sandinista regime and discussed assassination of government officials, "a blatant aberration from our publicly declared policy."

Armstrong spoke Thursday to a convention of former FBI agents.
